About me

I am a digital marketing professional with a dual background in communication and data. With my Bachelor's in digital communication and my Master's in big data and AI, my specialty lies at the intersection of social media strategy and data analysis. I translate social media metrics and engagement data into actionable content strategies that build strong digital communities.

Professional experience

Data analyst & head of social media

Thex | Murcia | September 2026 – Present

- Lead community management and end-to-end content creation, designing high-quality corporate assets and digital formats to establish a premium brand identity.
- Engineer data pipelines and automate publishing workflows, analyzing cross-platform KPIs to continuously optimize our content and digital strategy.
- Translate complex metrics into actionable insights, driving targeted traffic and engagement for key corporate initiatives like CEX Careers and the Kemet project.

Social media manager & data analyst (Part-time)

Instituto Élan de Sexología | Madrid | April 2025 – Present

- Manage social media platforms and created the brand voice from scratch for a sensitive medical niche.
- Translate complex medical information into highly engaging social media formats.
